Worm composting is a critical natural event which enhances plant growth, healthy soil, and a Green Culture sustainable life. Compost kitchen scraps or other organic matter with the Worm Farm. Collect concentrated worm tea (a by-product of worm farming) to be used for garden pest and weed control (follow published dilution and handling recommendations). The Green Culture Worm Farm by Redmon Since 1883 can be a great starter and educational tool.

- Perfect for first time vermi-composting and teaching the basics
- Learn the importance of composting food scraps for soil enrichment and aiding the compost process
- Light Weight
- Secure Clips and Handle for easy moving and keeping unwanted vermin out
- In addition to rich compost the "worm tea" produced is an excellent fertilizer for organic gardening.
